

Caring for Yorkshire's canals and rivers

We're the charity working to protect and bring to life this 250-year-old network of canals and rivers spanning England and Wales. Not so long ago many canals were abandoned, and some lost forever. Today, with your support, wildlife is recovering, history is alive, boats are plentiful and spending time in this environment is contributing to our health and happiness.

Our mission is to keep this extraordinary network of canals and rivers alive, teeming with wildlife, transforming places they run through and enriching all of our lives. Your support today could help us care for Yorkshire's canals and rivers and many more places, for today and generations to come.

Making life better by water

Keeping history alive

Sowerby Bridge is at the junction of the Calder and Hebble Navigation and the Rochdale Canal.

The locks on the Calder & Hebble Navigation are shorter than those on the Rochdale Canal. Sowerby Bridge was a transhipment port where goods were stored after they were unloaded from one size of boat, ready to go onto another. The canal basin and warehouses where the canals meet are listed buildings.
