Previous documents related to the consultation process can be found below: Stage one

The first step in a three-stage consultation started in February. In stage one, Involve interviewed representatives from the main boating organisations to find out their views on how the consultation should work and what it should cover.

Stage two

During the second stage Involve hosted a series of in-depth workshops with boaters across the country. Participants reflected the diversity in the boating community.

Stage three

The final stage was a consultation for all boat owners to give their views on the options developed during the two previous stages.
